H. Media coverage

The media coverage of the fourth session was one of the highest in recent years in terms of quantity and quality, with 90 journalists accredited, some 700 articles (provisional figures) in the international and key national print and electronic media, as well as major audiovisual coverage. Overall, their geographic distribution reflected the PACE agenda, with strong coverage found in Ukraine, Russian Federation, Czech Republic, Azerbaijan, Cyprus and Spain and other international media.

The resignation of Pedro Agramunt and the election of Stella Kyriakides as new PACE president, together with Czech President Miloš Zeman’s address to the Assembly, attracted the most media coverage.

The debate on Call for a Council of Europe Summit to reaffirm European unity and to defend and promote democratic security in Europe generated substantial media coverage in the international and regional media, as also did the Assembly’s decision to award the 2017 Václav Havel Human Rights Prize to Murat Arslan.

Ukrainian President Petro Poroshenko’s address to the Assembly and the debate on Ukraine’s new education law were widely reported. Also extensively covered were the two adopted texts on Azerbaijan, the debate on the need for a political solution to the crisis in Catalonia and the adoption of a revised Code of Conduct for Assembly members.

There were 14 video edits requested by and sent to news agencies (ENEX, Reuters, Ruptly TV, EVN, ARTE, APTN, AFP) during the autumn Session, more than three times the number of requests/offers made during the June session.

The Assembly’s social media accounts saw record activity, with most interest in the Vaclav Havel Prizewinner, the election of a new President and the speech by President Petro Poroshenko. There were 370,000 Twitter “impressions” across the week, a record. The Facebook post on Mrs Kyriakides’ election reached 6,300, also a record.

The MediaBox, a web-TV studio available to all those making news at the Assembly, recorded and edited some 40 interviews with parliamentarians and participants in plenary debates and side-events.
